Another first for Maleny Cheese

Brace yourselves, cheese lovers. Maleny Cheese now has an extensive range of Buffalo cheeses to tempt even the most discerning palate. Buffalo milk is highly regarded among cheese makers - it is creamier, higher in fat and protein but, lower in cholesterol than cow's milk. The down side is that because it is not as readily available as cow's milk it can be up to six times more expensive.

Award winning cheese maker Markus Bucher, has developed a the range using local Buffalo milk sourced from Mal Thompson's farm in Maleny. These cheese types include - buffalo brie and feta and a delicious buffalo dip which would complement any gourmet platter. Also, be sure to try the 'Herb Buffalino' which is a Philly style spread, ideal for serving on toast or crackers.

The latest in the Buffalo range is the 'Wash Rind Buffalo Cheese'. This is a semi hard cheese and quite unique.

"This is one of the very first semi hard buffalo cheeses locally produced in Australia," said Markus. "We also sell Buffalo curd and quark are sold to the public when available".

Recently Maleny Cheese took part in the 'Rosalie Village Carnivale' in Brisbane where cheese makers from all over the country gather and make their cheeses available for the public to buy and taste test.

"There was non stop entertainment, a street parade and we sold over 400 cheese platters," said Jennepher. "There were so many people there! It is just wonderful to see everyone enjoying gourmet, Australian made cheeses."
